

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a method and composition for treating a patient having a condition characterized as inflammatory bowel disease with an effective dose of HGF. Mucosal damage and histologic lesions are reduced by administering HGF to patients suffering from the same. HGF may be administered to the patient lumenally or systemically.